

No doubt her dress, cut very low. Would seem to be just built for show. Our modesty, she would not shock it. No round her neck she wears a locket.

In order to further encourage the big tobacco manufacturers who are big buyers on the Lexington tobacco market, Fayette capitalists have bought ground on Spring street, in Lexington, on which will be built another large storage warehouse, and re-drying plant. The plans for the improvement include the expenditure of more than $50,000, and when the plant is completed will give employment to a number of men. It is said that the building will be used exclusively by the American Tobacco Company.

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we were glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription, can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves are hesitatingly recommending D. D. D. Prescription.

Drop into our store today, just to talk over the merits of this wonderful Prescription.

OUR GREAT INLAND WATERWAYS.

By Dr. A. Ellis.

The Cumberland Canal. Before going on to speak of this great and unfortunate undertaking permit a few remarks on the efforts to improve the navigation of the Potomac River, during the first few years of our existence as an independent nation. A scheme which our great leader, Gen. Washington, advocated from his early manhood, clear down to the very day of his death. That eminent and far-sighted man ever contended that our vast system of navigable streams was the finest asset next to our soil of the then, infant nation. He, early in life

TRAIN ROBBER MISSED MAYSVILLE MAN.

(Daytona, Florida Journal.)

D. N. House, of Dayton, Ky., a near neighbor of Judge and Mrs. J. M. Tisdale, came in Saturday and will likely spend the season here. He was here last winter for the first time and enjoyed it so much he couldn't resist the temptation to come again.

He was a passenger on a Western and Atlantic train last week when the train was boarded by a daring robber but he was fortunate in being in another coach.

When the train left Vinings, Ga., the bandit got busy in the chair car, with a drawn pistol in one hand he collected money as he went, but a deputy sheriff opened fire and the bandit escaped from the train. He made several collections of from a few dollars to three hundred each.

It has ever been used as a political machine by that party at the expense of its physical and financial good. Mr. Gorman who was for many years its president is said to have sailed into the United States Senate on the placid waters of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. The disastrous floods of 1889 caused so much damage to it that a large sum was required to restore it.

The State refused aid and it was for while abandoned. There was an attempt to sell the franchise for the small sum of $200,000 and the Maryland Legislature passed an act to do so, when lo! and behold, some of the holders of some old time bonds stepped in and stopped it. The courts protected them in some way which is not very clearly understood by the writer of these lines. Here lately the canal has been repaired at the cost of over half a million of dollars and is at this time in operation. Since 1891 it has been operated by trustees under a mortgage dated June 5, 1848. Strange to say there is a considerable increase of business.

SUNDAY CRITICIZED BY EPISCOPALIAN MINISTERS.

Bishop Cortland Whitehead and twenty-eight of the leading Episcopal ministers in Pittsburgh, at a meeting of the Clerical Union, denounced Billy Sunday, who is conducting a religious campaign in the Smoky City, and by adopting a resolution took a direct thrust at the baseball evangelist. The resolution reads: "Resolved, That we, the bishop and clergy of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the diocese of Pittsburgh, indignantly protest against vulgarity, irreverence, sacrilege and profanity in the sacred name of religion; against holding up to public contempt and ridicule of the church of Christ as a sham and its members as hypocrites; against the use of the holy name of God in coarse and common familiarity; against the putting into misuse of our blessed Lord and his teachings; against the shocking to all religious sense and feeling as much beneath him as the earth is lower than the heavens."

Mr. Sunday refused to comment on the attack.

BEAUTIFUL SPECIAL TODAY Edison 2-Reel Feature "PEG OF THE MOVIES"

An entertaining story, featuring Ben T. Wilson and Gertrude McCoy. Also gives an idea how moving pictures are made.

Valley Just as soon as peace was declared and he returned to the storied shades of Mt. Vernon, he allied himself with a number of distinguished men and had Virginia and Maryland to pass acts in their Legislatures authorizing an improvement of the Potomac. The first thing done by these two States was to jointly appropriate the sum of $6,000 for the opening and keeping in repair of a road leading from the head of navigation across the mountains to the Monongahela valley. The next was to secure a charter and a fund to work on. The subscription books of the Potomac Improvement Co. were opened on the 8th day of February, 1785. The shares were of 100 pounds sterling, each. Virginia took 266 shares and Maryland 137—making a beginning of 40,300 or a little over $200,000. Want of space prevents a detailed notice of the work done and money spent during the first few years at the Great Falls, the Seneca Falls and the Shenandoah Falls—now known as Harper's Ferry. Never until the project was fully under way did the company realize the great cost and difficulty of the work. In May, 1787, Washington was elected President of the United States and of course vacated the place he had from the first filled in the organization. From that time on the affairs of the company languished, proving clearly that for his great nerve and energy the attempt to improve the navigation of the Potomac would never have existed. After dragging along for over 30 years and the spending of about three-fourths of a million dollars the charter was given up and the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal Company came into existence. The Virginia Legislature incorporating it on the 27th day of January, 1824. About one year subsequently the Maryland General Assembly passed a similar act. The new company was capitalized at six millions, i. e. 60,000 shares of $100.00 each. The general government gave a little help in the sum of $30,000 to push the survey and to demonstrate the feasibility of the scheme. Among the distinguished engineers detailed to investigate and map out the great work were some of the most noted graduates of the West Point Academy. Among them Col. J. J. Albert—who was for almost 50 years chief engineer of the army and who personally made the survey from Washington, 1824, to Cumberland, Maryland. Beginning at Georgetown on the Potomac the route was right along the bank of the Potomac to Cumberland a distance of 185 miles. With 74 locks and an ascent of 578 feet. From Cumberland this way was up Wills Creek and across the mountains to Turkey Foot (Connelville) on the Youngbushy a distance of 70 miles and from thence along the Monongahela down into Pittsburgh, making in all 342 miles from Washington, D. C. to the Ohio River. The lockage between Cumberland and Turkey Foot was 1,261 feet with a tunnel 4 1/2 miles long at the top of the mountain. The estimated cost was a little over 22 millions—certainly a gigantic sum for that day when money was so scarce and the great mass of the people so poor. This report fell upon all those interested in the canal with an overwhelming and disappointing surprise. After a great deal of talking and speculation a new estimate was made by Messrs. James Geddes and Nathan S. Roberts who cut down the estimate one-half. To the most optimistic this announcement was hailed with delight but the more wise and conservative relied on the first figures. Under the head of "general consideration" the board treated eminently the proposition presented by the acts incorporating the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal and the treatise is one of the most interesting studies of early commerce between the East and the West. The great population areas on both sides of the sea of the Alleghenies, the increased value of real estate which would follow the building of the canal, the articles of
